LAPLAND TOURS SPECIAL REMARKS

- 1) Aurora Borealis - Sighting of this visual spectacle is dependent on solar activity; cloud cover & general weather conditions. Hence it can never be guaranteed.
- 2) Tour manager will make the best possible decision when hunting the Northern Lights. If the weather conditions neither in nor favourable, the hunt will be cancelled.
- 3) The sequence of itinerary, meals and hotel arrangement are subject to the final adjustment. It is due to limitation of glass igloos and domestic flights.
- 4) Lapland Hotels has no star grading - equivalent will be provided.
- 5) Weather condition in Lapland is very unpredictable, roads and attractions may close at short notice, and we will proceed with the alternative routings in such scenarios based on the best possible situation.
- 6) Passenger may choose to opt to use a bus for further and longer hunting Northern Lights duration; this has to be agreed by whole group and informed 3 days before. The costs will be shared equally among the group members.
- 7) Some accommodations may not have specific twin or double room types. Triple room sharing will be based on extra roll in bed basics.

WHAT IS THE AURORA BOREALIS?

As the temperature on the Sun rises and falls, the Sun boils and bubbles, releasing charged particles on its surface. When these particles are blown towards the Earth by the solar wind, they are largely deflected by the earth's magnetic field. However, the Earth's magnetic field is weaker at either pole hence allowing the particles to enter and collide with gases such oxygen and nitrogen. These collisions emit lights that we perceive as the dancing lights of Aurora. In the northern hemisphere, we term it "Aurora Borealis" while in the southern hemisphere, it is called "Aurora Australia".

Generally, it is known throughout the world as the "Northern Lights"

WHERE IS THE BEST PLACE TO WATCH AURORA LIGHTS ?

In Europe, Scandinavia, particularly the Lapland areas of Norway, Sweden and Finland is very good for Aurora viewing. Iceland and Northern Russia are also good places for aurora as well as southern tip of Greenland due to their close proximity to magnetic North Pole.

Look for places away from neon lights. Preferably by lakesides or mountain top with a good view of the north.

WHEN IS THE BEST TIME TO SEE THE LIGHTS?

Winter in the north is generally a good season to view lights. The longer periods of darkness from September to April and the frequency of clear nights provide many good opportunities to watch the aurora displays.

Usually the best time of the night (on clear nights) to hunt for aurora displays is between 10pm and 2am although they are often seen earlier or later than that.
